REPORT WITH PHOTOGRAPHS ON LIFE SKILLS (YOGA, PHYSICAL FITNESS, HEALTH AND HYGIENE)
ENHANCEMENT PROGRAMS

The legal profession can be stressful, making emotional intelligence and stress management vital. Programs on mindfulness, resilience training, and emotional intelligence help students manage stress, empathize with clients, and maintain professional relationships. Activities like Psychology Sessions and Yoga Sessions can help students to cope with the pressures of legal work.

1. Psychology Sessions: Psychology sessions can significantly enhance life skills for law students by providing them with a deeper understanding of human behaviour, emotional intelligence, stress management, and interpersonal skills. These sessions equip students with tools that are not only essential for their personal well-being but also crucial for their professional success. These sessions help students develop emotional intelligence, stress management, teaches interpersonal skills and leads to ethical decision making. [Psychology Sessions attached]
2. Yoga Sessions: Weekly Yoga Sessions for the students are organized by the College. Yoga, an ancient practice that harmonizes the mind, body, and spirit, offers numerous life skills essential for law students. Law students often face high levels of stress and pressure due to the demanding nature of their studies. Incorporating yoga sessions into their routine can significantly enhance their overall well-being and equip them with valuable life skills. One of the primary benefits of yoga is its ability to reduce stress. Through various breathing exercises, meditation, and physical postures, yoga helps calm the mind and relax the body. This skill is crucial for law students, who frequently deal with rigorous coursework, tight deadlines, and high-stakes exams. Effective stress management can lead to better academic performance and a more balanced lifestyle. The practice of yoga fosters emotional resilience by encouraging mindfulness and self-awareness. This helps law students navigate the emotional ups and downs associated with their studies and future legal practice. [Yoga Sessions attached]
